Contents

Generous Support 5
Introduction 6
Some Helpful Tips 7
National Standards of Learning 8
Education Associations and Websites 9
Acknowledgments 10
About The Phillips Collection 12
Reference List 13

Tab 1  Jacob Lawrence Biography
Jacob Lawrence Biography 15

Tab 2  About The Migration Series
About The Migration Series 17
The Migration Series (Color Reproductions) 26
Original 1940–41 Captions for The Migration Series 39

Tab 3  Exploring Lawrence’s World
The Great Migration and the Harlem Renaissance 42
Lawrence’s Artistic Process 51
Life in the South 77
The Great Migration 97
Life in the North 113
The Harlem Renaissance 123

Tab 4  Teaching Tips and Tools
Thematic Teaching Tips 142
Lawrence’s Artistic Process 142
Storytelling/Narrative 144
Migration 145
Discrimination and Social Change 147
Community and Family 148
Contents

Tab 4  continued

Worksheets
1. Chronicle Your Own Adventure 149
2. The Shape of Things 151
3. From the Library to the Easel 153
4. Color—Less is More! 155
5. Letters from the North 156
6. Travel Search Game 157
7. Taking the Train—Travel Math 159
8. Poetry and Art—Creating with Rhythm and Mood 161
9. Talk it Up! Doing a Community Interview 163

To Learn More 164

Tab 5  Nationwide Curriculum

Tab 6  Visual Resources

Posters 169
Teaching Transparencies 169
DVD 170

The Making of The Migration Series, 1993
Over the Line: The Art and Life of Jacob Lawrence, 2001

CD-ROM 170

PDF of Jacob Lawrence and The Migration Series Teaching Kit
PowerPoint presentation of the captioned odd-numbered panels
of The Migration Series owned by The Phillips Collection
PowerPoint presentation of ways to use the Kit in your classroom
Digital Images from The Migration Series and Primary Sources
This teaching kit has been made possible through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts as part of the American Masterpieces program, with additional support from MetLife Foundation and the Henry Luce Foundation.
At The Phillips Collection, we greatly value our relationships with teachers. We hope that the stimulating array of arts-integrated resources in the Jacob Lawrence and The Migration Series Teaching Kit supports classroom learning for years to come.

Designed for K–12 teachers and students across the curriculum, the Teaching Kit includes educational materials on the painter Jacob Lawrence and his seminal work, The Migration Series. To learn about The Migration Series in depth, we have incorporated primary sources to bring to life Lawrence’s depiction of African American migration from the rural South to the urban North, as well as the artist’s experiences as a child during the Harlem Renaissance.

These resources are varied. They range from reproductions of a railway map that may have been used by African American migrants, to contemporary articles addressing the Great Migration, to letters written by the migrants themselves. We have found that working with primary sources allows students to explore Lawrence’s art in context, and stimulates critical thinking skills through debate, analysis, and interpretation.

We have seen how innovative teachers utilize The Migration Series in their classes, incorporating the paintings into language arts and social studies curricula. We have produced a selection of teaching tips, tools, and worksheets for K–12 classrooms based on our years of assisting teachers who work with these images.

This Teaching Kit would not have been possible without the generous support of the National Endowment for the Arts as part of the American Masterpieces program and additional support from MetLife Foundation and the Henry Luce Foundation. These grants have enabled The Phillips Collection to share one of its greatest works of art with broad audiences and make this teaching resource accessible to educators and students across the country.

When Duncan Phillips purchased The Migration Series in 1942, the year after Lawrence completed it, he was fulfilling a long-held commitment to living American artists. Phillips’s support of a young and relatively unknown artists, proved to be tremendously important. The Migration Series continues to teach generations of students about African American history, to inspire us with its artistic style and visual storytelling, and to allow us to reflect, as Lawrence did, on the universality of our American migration/immigration story.

Jay Gates
Director
The Phillips Collection