Toulouse-Lautrec Illustrates the Belle Époque

Through his lithographs and posters, Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec captured the heart of Parisian nightlife in dynamic cabaret and café-concert scenes inspired by the city's burgeoning entertainment district. A frequent visitor to lively hotspots, his record of local amusements fashioned a portrait of modern life. This special exhibition presents, for the first time in the United States, one of the foremost collections of the artist's prints and posters. Nearly 100 examples of incomparable quality and color celebrate daily life and the premier performers of the belle époque—Aristide Bruant, Marcelle Lender, Cha-U-Kao, and others—cleverly caricatured through Toulouse-Lautrec's perceptive skills of observation and transformation. Drawn from the artist's most prolific years exploring lithography (1891–1899), these iconic images and rarely exhibited unique proofs provide insight into his innovative and complex process.

Admission for all other art on view:

Weekends: $12 for adults, $10 for students as well as visitors 62 and over; free for members and visitors 18 and under; FREE weekdays, includes permanent collection

Arlene Shechet: From Here On Now

New York-based sculptor Arlene Shechet is known for glazed ceramic sculptures that are off-kilter yet hang in a balance between stable and unstable, teetering between the restraint of intellect and the insistence of instinct. Her sculptures encourage circumambulation, often drawing upon Buddhist iconography for inspiration. For this installation, Shechet's sculptures in ceramic, porcelain, and paper are exhibited with works she selected from the permanent collection.

Jacob Lawrence: The Life of Toussaint L'Ouverture

Featuring a series of 15 rarely seen silkscreen prints created by American artist Jacob Lawrence between 1986 and 1997, this exhibition portrays the life of Toussaint L'Ouverture (1742-1803), the former slave turned leader of Haiti's independence movement. Lawrence had explored the same subject more than 40 years earlier in a series of paintings of the same title. While he based these later prints on the earlier paintings, Lawrence distilled the story to 15 works from the original 41 panels and significantly expanded their scale. He worked closely with DC-based master printmaker Lou Stovall to translate the colors and fluid movement of the original tempera paint to each composition. In highlighting the life of the courageous leader Toussaint L'Ouverture, Lawrence invites us to reflect on Haiti's transformation from an enslaved French colony to the first black Western republic. At the same time, the series reminds us of the country's ongoing struggle to overcome poverty and political instability.

Prism.K12 in Action: Storytelling through The Migration Series

Explore visual and performance art created by students in classrooms facilitated by educators in the Phillips's Prism.K12 Jacob Lawrence Teacher Cohort. Throughout the fall, the cohort of best practice educators from local partner schools—Carlos Rosario International Public Charter School, Turner Elementary School, Vansville Elementary School, and Washington School for Girls—used the Phillips's Prism.K12 methodology to develop and implement lessons that integrated playwriting, storytelling, and Jacob Lawrence's Migration Series. This exhibition represents the latest in the museum's ongoing and longstanding dedication to The Migration Series and arts integration.

One-on-One: Enrique Martínez Celaya / Albert Pinkham Ryder

This installation juxtaposes several paintings from the Phillips's permanent collection by American Romantic painter Albert Pinkham Ryder (1847–1917) with The First Kierkegaard by Cuban-born American artist Enrique Martínez Celaya. Trained as an artist as well as a physicist, Martínez Celaya's work examines the complexities and mysteries of individual experience—particularly in relation to nature and time—and explores the questions of the human condition through diverse knowledge systems as well as literature, poetry, and art.

Jake Berthot: From the Collection and Promised Gifts

The Phillips Collection has long had a special relationship with Jake Berthot (1939–2014), whose introspective paintings have been described as visual poetry. In 1996, the museum organized an exhibition of his work, and in 2015 received a major bequest from the artist's estate. Including promised gifts, the Phillips now holds 25 paintings, drawings, and prints by Berthot, the largest and most important "unit" of this artist's work in a museum collection.

Women of Influence: Elmira Bier, Minnie Byers, and Marjorie Phillips

Exhibited just outside the museum's library, Women of Influence examines the critical roles played by three women in the Phillips's history—Duncan Phillips's executive assistant Elmira Bier, financial advisor Minnie Byers, and Phillips's wife and museum co-founder Marjorie Phillips.

PERMANENT COLLECTION

Ongoing

One of the world's finest collections of modern and contemporary American and European art, the museum is home to Pierre-Auguste Renoir's iconic Luncheon of the Boating Party, Jacob Lawrence's epic Migration Series, and a chapel-like Rothko Room, as well as innovative new work by artists of today, including a wax room by Wolfgang Laib. Installations change frequently and are not chronological, sparking conversations across time and place.

Toulouse-Lautrec: Exploring Life in Paris through the Art of Lithography

Dr. Hilliard Goldfarb, Senior Curator—Collections at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and one of the curatorial organizers of Toulouse-Lautrec Illustrates the Belle Époque, explores Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec's lithographic career. Dr. Goldfarb will discuss works such as the artist's first famous poster and printed work, Moulin Rouge, La Goulue (1891), as well as one of his last major works in the medium, Jane Avril (1899). Inspired by Japanese woodcuts and works by his French contemporaries, Toulouse-Lautrec pushed the medium to new, dramatic possibilities. This is a preview event for the special exhibition. Ticket holders are granted access to the exhibition from 5 pm–6:30 pm. Reservations recommended:
